

“..you know, I want to inspire: I wrote a story, my dream of a happier crisis management and of a society guided by the search for happiness, a dream of solidarity and of the collective interest that takes precedence, of a society driven by the respect of nature and of the living...I want things to change, I want young people to be able to dream, to be happy. And as I said, I have an idea, a dream, but what do young people think about it? Do they have dreams too? I want to organize circles with them and record them. Then we'll stimulate a resonance from circle to circle, a community of practice!»

CIRCLO, THE COLLECTIVE

What if the future was being played out now ? In our way of living, of being in relationship with ourselves, with others, and with nature, of reacting to the crises and upheavals that are happening to us and that we must continue to face ? What if part of the answers to these multiple crises was to take the time to listen to ourselves, to enter into a dialogue suspended from judgment, authentic and rooted in the moment ? This is also the hypothesis of quantum physicist David Bohm, that «if there is a possibility of transforming the nature of consciousness, at the individual and collective levels, and (...) if this is to happen culturally and socially, it is going to depend on dialogue.»

It is this possibility that we are exploring by launching CIRCLO. Rather than debate the opinions that separate us, can we facilitate and accompany transgenerational dialogue circles that allow us to experience what unites us ? Would this experience lead to action for a happier society ?

CONCRETELY ?

Our goal is to make available to as many groups as possible a series of bilingual tools available free of charge that promote deep listening and bring the human being back to the heart of the collective.
